THURSDAY MORNIN JUNE 1, 18-2 THE CONDITION OF TRADE.

The New York Times is doing a great work in the collection of information from every part of the country regarding matters of general public interest. Its issue of May 18ths its reference to the country to general public interest. Its issue of May 18th its reference to the countries on field extension. contains twenty columns of reports of the con-dition of trade in the various sections of the dition of trade in the various sections of the country. These reports cover every $1310 and territory in the union and afford removed evidence of the rust extent of our internal commerce- a greatness universally neknowledged but not always appreciated. This evidence the facts be given was contained in the decided difference in the condition of affairs in the different business centers, showing that the country is every your becoming more independent of any one imnortalit product, and while a serious decrease in so important us corn, cotton or wheat large area, and to some extent throughout the country, it is loss likely to be leastrous with every year of progress. while the reports from Cincinnati and Baltimure, cities directly dependent to a considera degree on the Mississippi valley, were not hopeful, the reports from Richmond, Atlanta. Savannah and Petersburg showed a ver healthy and even flattering advance. The cause of the difference is significant. The Mississippi valley, below Vickslurg, is still the sent of more of the old-fashioned agriculture which depends on a single crup, or on two or three crops, and its people have to buy nearly everything they need or wish with the proceeds of these. The regions with which the other cities mentioned deal are gradually and quite rapidly outgrowing this method of working, and not only have varied their products, but we obtered with energy and success upon at least the beginning of manufactures. Throughont a large part of the south an improvement out a large machine representation of the reported in the sale of agricultural machinery, and, with this, a tendency toward more frequent purchases, more moderate use of redit and generally more business-like meth-

Local manufactures have increased greatly within the past five years. There is also a de-Manufactures, not only in extent, but in variety. The leaven of eler of free labor and free competition, is work. The treedman is becoming many times more valuable as a producer and er than the slave was as an unpaid laone of whose principal industries was slavebreeding and the Virginia which is sending her manufactures and her machinery into all the sea board states of the south is one which speaks volumes for the permanent prosperity of the whole land. In the south, with the exit the Mississippi valley, so lately deastured by field, the outlook is good.

which Chicago is the boad and front—it is lighter; though clouded in some places by dan-ger of a short crap of form. The trades which are reported most sleadly advanting are those which are most directly dependent on agriculpro and on the daily wants of the farmers, eve of Immisments and machind clothing and in household furniture trade does not watrant any advance in general

In the meanfine the increase in the cost of living due to tipes the cost of production and the capacity of consumption. There is a material and mavitable reaction. Its dy has been aggravated by the spoo desired the self substitute of the spontage of the self substitute o productive consecuty from the unprecedented instagration, which still continues, and also the last that, in spite of speculation, business nas unquestionably been done for the past cight reas on very much less extended credit sult on a spender and more conservative basis. It remains to be seen whether or not the country will scooning the seen whether or not the country will scooning the seen whether the pew condistant and apply the brokes in time to secure a steady and legitimate progress.
